

Dear colleagues!

The modern trends of biological threats growing, emergent diseases (Lumpy skin disease, African swine fever, Avian flu and other in Central and Eastern Europe) determine the necessarily to pay the extremely high attention to the biosafety issues and biological hazards control.

The National Scientific Center 'Institute of the Experimental and Clinical Veterinary Medicine' is the leading specialized research institution in Ukraine created for solving scientific and practical tasks of veterinary animal. NSC IECVM's basic research are focused on: immunogenesis and disease pathogenesis, indications, authentications, isolations and studies of biological features of their causative agents, developments of facilities and systems of monitoring, diagnostics, prophylaxis and prognostication of infectious diseases of animals, monitoring of quality and unconcern of agricultural produce and development of the normative basis for animal diseases control and biosafety. NSC 'IECVM' coordinates implementation of scientific researches on questions veterinary medicine, that conduct scientific establishments of NAAS, State consumer protection service of Ukraine, and Higher educational establishments of Ukraine of agrarian profile.

New journal 'Journal for veterinary medicine, biotechnology and biosafety', discovered in 2015, aimed to consolidate and share the new developments and achievements in the aria of biological science. This was recognized as the profile edition for veterinary medicine doctors and biologists in Ukraine. Our journal promotes the research of Ukrainian in stitutions, publishing their achievements in English, and sharing it among the scientific community. It was included in Index Copernicus and eLibrary scientific databases.

The Editorial board hopes, that our magazine will be interesting for wide auditorium of scientists and practical specialists in veterinary medicine, biology, biotechnology and biosafety. We invite new authors for fruitful collaboration and joint development.

Sincerely yours,
Editors-in-Chief

Prof. Borys STEGNIY
